Curriculum introduction

Next to the River Thames in London, England, you can see Big Ben in the clock tower of the Parliament House. This is the last stop of Qobo's world travel.

Curriculum introduction

Big Ben, also known as Elizabeth Tower, is a signal building. It also is one of the famous Gothic architectures in the world. It is interesting that its name is adopted from architect Benjamin's pet name — Ben.

Curriculum introduction

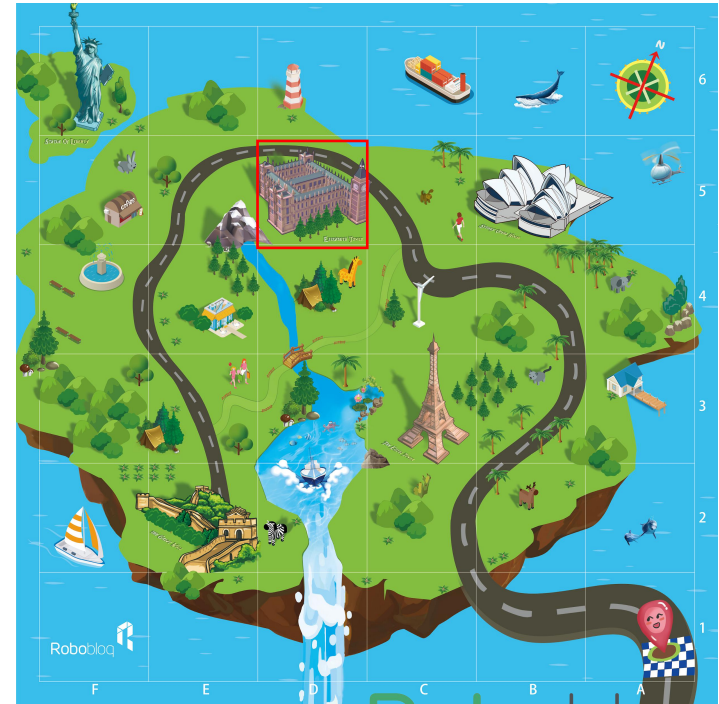

The height of Big Ben is 95 meters, and it has four sides. So, no matter which side you stand, you can see the clock.

Big Ben's hand is about 4 meters. Its sound is very loud, and every quarter, it rings one time. Although Big Ben has over one-century old history, its ring is still melodious.

Curriculum introduction

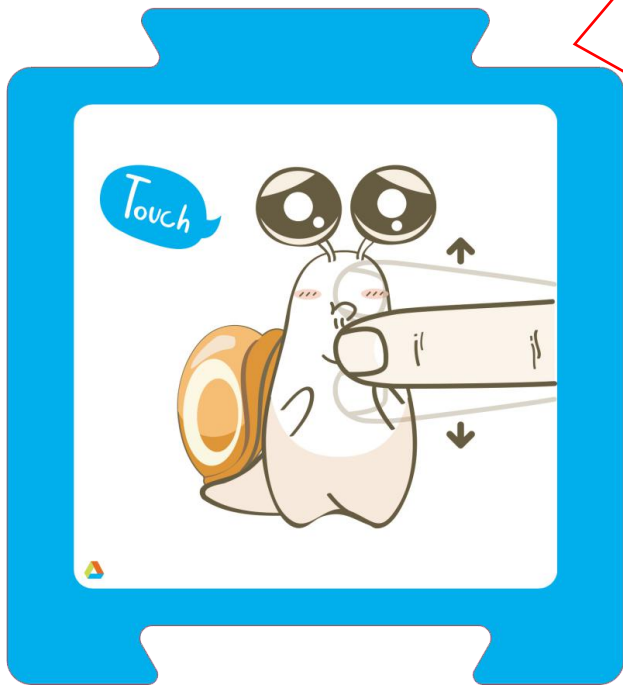

Qobo has walked through more than ten places of historic interest. The last place, Big Ben, is also very famous, and we have high expectations for it.

Card explanation

Touch-face card:
When Qobo is on the touch-face card, it will stop to wait for us to touch its face. Then keeps advancing one step forward.

Hands and brains

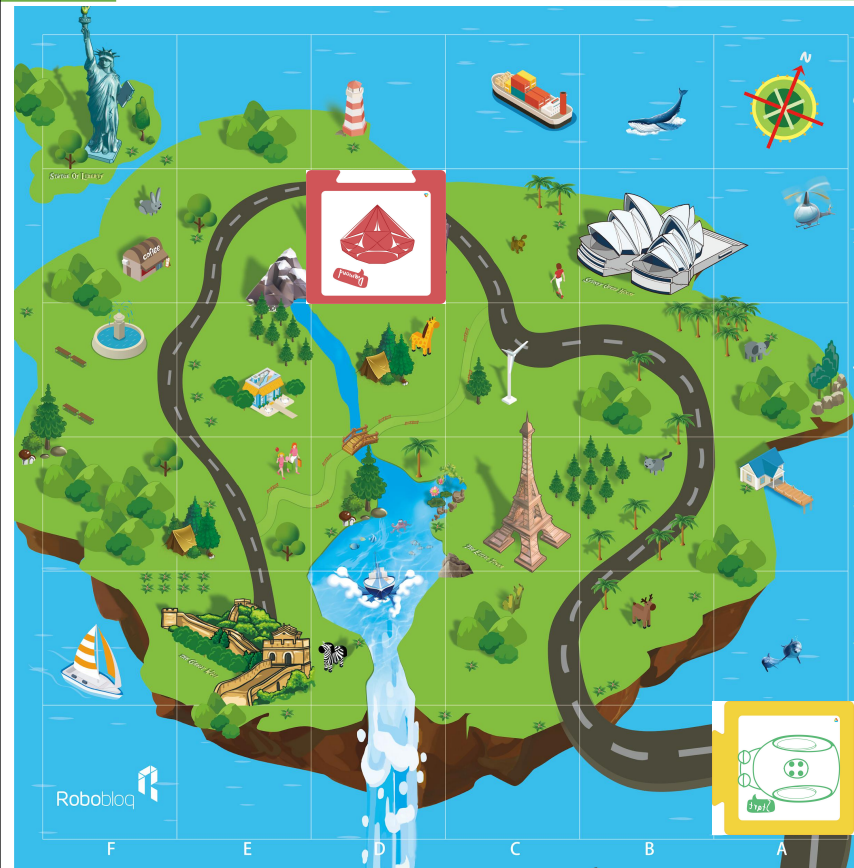

Qobo is very happy on its way to Big Ben. It needs us to touch its face to keep going. To finish the goal of the last stop, we fulfilled Qobo's wish of being happy and self-willed.

Hands and brains

With our help, Qobo has finally reached Big Ben of England finally. It saw the big clock inside and heard melodious ring of Big Ben.

Task challenge

We have learned a lot of cards of Qobo, including color light card, train card and so on. Use these cards to build a more diversified route.

Children, try it, how many ideas do you have?

After-class sharing

Children, do you remember how many cards we have learned about Qobo?
Where has Qobo been? What characters do those places have? You can tell which place of historic interest impressed you most?
